

THE WOMEN OF CONGRESS SPEAK THEIR MIND

LESSON PLAN SEVEN

RECOMMENDED GRADE LEVEL: Grades 7 to 12

OVERVIEW

This activity is designed to accompany the Women in Congress website, history.house.gov/exhibition-and-publications/wic/women-in-congress/. Students have the opportunity to analyze a series of statements made by women Members of Congress. Students are encouraged to think about the role that quotes can play in the study of history. (Citations for the quotation exercise used in this activity appear at the end of the “Historical Quotations” document.)

CURRICULUM CONNECTION

- U.S. History, American Government, Women’s History, Social Studies
- Women’s Suffrage, Women’s Rights Movement, World War II, Civil Rights Movement

OBJECTIVES

1. Students should be able to analyze public statements made by historic figures.
2. Students should be able to analyze the relationship between public statements and the historical record.
3. Students should be able to discern between opinion and fact.
4. Students should be able to analyze the relationship between statements made by public figures and the careers of women who have served in Congress.

LESSON PLAN

1. To help introduce students to the upcoming activity, lead a brief discussion using the questions below:
 - a. What are a few famous statements made by historical figures? What makes these statements memorable?
 - b. What are some of the reasons why people make public statements?
 - c. What is the relationship between opinion and fact in public statements?
 - d. What purpose can quotes play in the study of history? Provide several examples.
2. Divide the class into small groups. Distribute the “Historical Quotations” document to the class. Ask each group to read all of the quotes and either assign or have each group choose one of the quotations made by women Members. Distribute the “Quote Analysis” worksheet (p. 1 of Student Activity). Review the directions and ask students to complete the worksheet together.
3. If time permits, have each group read the Women in Congress profiles for the quoted Members. Go to history.house.gov/exhibition-and-publications/wic/women-in-congress/ and click on Member Profiles for a list of women who have served in Congress. Then, ask students to draft an outline of the profile which includes: state represented; years of service; one opinion and one fact from the profile; two quotes (not including the one already analyzed); and three career highlights. As a class, display each of the outlines for the women Representatives and Senators on a bulletin board or in a central location. Lead a class discussion which encourages students to compare and contrast the quotes and the careers of the women Representatives and Senators. Also, ask students to talk about the difference between fact and opinion, and the role this plays in the analysis of quotes.
4. If time permits, conduct one of the Suggested Extended Activities.

SUGGESTED EXTENDED ACTIVITIES

1. Assign a series of topics (historic and current) and have students create their own quotes to express their opinions. Encourage students to research the topics so that they can make an informed and factually-based quote on the subject.
2. Write a 500-word newspaper article on your Representative or one of your Senators that includes at least three quotes by the featured politician.
3. Invite a historian to speak to the class to explain the importance and usefulness of quotes in the study of history.
