Now today, there is a clash between two fundamentally different approaches to life. On the one hand, there is the Judaic Christian concept of a society based on the belief of a supreme being. And on the other hand, is atheistic communism, which is opposed not only to our concept of government but to the purposes of all life as we understand it. For as the President has warned, we must apply more knowledge and intellect to this subject and less prejudice and emotion. We must remember that the strategies of communist leaders is that of divide and conquer. Look how it worked in other free nations of the world. We mustn't fall for it, and we mustn't follow anyone who falls for it. For the communists exploit every difference among us and we cannot, as they would like to have us do, lose faith in our institutions and in the essential wisdom of men. We cannot accept our freedoms lightly. We must preserve the form of government which has given us these freedoms.
