Interview recorded January 29, 2016

I, I'm going to say, I'm going to say the last part of my career—and actually this kind of still goes on as well—has really been about mentoring, you know, the next generation. And certainly when I was on the Rules Committee, that was a huge part of my perspective, is making sure that, you know, I was the Tip O'Neill—obviously, he's a giant and I'm—you know, was just a little staff director. But making sure that everybody in the office had the opportunities that they needed to grow. Yes, that's—that was something that was just hugely, hugely important to me.
