INTRODUCTION

The Special Committee to Investigate Campaign Expenditures, 1944, was created by House Resolution 551, 78th Congress, adopted by the House of Representatives on June 21, 1944. Like counterpart committees in prior Congresses, the special committee was charged primarily with the task of overseeing the 1944 political campaigns of candidates for election to the House of Representatives. House Resolution 551, Seventy-eighth Congress, provided in part as follows:

Resolved, That a special committee of seven members be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives to investigate and report to the House not later than January 3, 1945, with respect to the following matters:

1. The extent and nature of expenditures made by all candidates for the House of Representatives in connection with their campaign for nomination and election to such offices.

2. The amounts subscribed and contributed, and the value of services rendered, and facilities made available (including personal services, use of advertising space, radio time, office space, moving-picture films, and automobile and other transportation facilities) by any individual, individuals, or group of individuals, committee, partnership, corporation, or labor union, to or on behalf of each such candidate in connection with any such campaign or for the purpose of influencing the votes cast or to be cast at any convention or election held in 1944 to which a candidate for the House of Representatives is to be nominated or elected.

3. The use of any other means or influence (including the promise or use of patronage) for the purpose of aiding or influencing the nomination or election of any such candidates.

4. The amounts, if any, raised, contributed, and expended by any corporation, labor organization, trade or business association, and any other organization, including any political committee thereof, in connection with any such election, and the amounts received by any political committee from any corporation, labor union, trade or business association, and any other organization.

5. The violations, if any, of the following statutes of the United States:

(a) The Federal Corrupt Practices Act.

(b) Title 18, sections 61 to 61t, inclusive, United States Code, 1940 edition, relating to pernicious political activities, commonly referred to as the Hatch Act.

(c) The provisions of section 9, Public Law 89, Seventy-eighth Congress chapter 144, first session, referred to as the "War Labor Disputes Act".

(d) Any statute or legislative Act of the United States, or of the State within which a candidate is seeking nomination or reelection to the House of Representatives, the violation of which Federal or State statute, or statutes, would affect the qualification of a Member of the House of Representatives within the meaning of article I, section 5, of the Constitution of the United States.

6. Such other matters relating to the election of President, Vice President, and Members of the House of Representatives in 1944, and the campaigns of candidates in connection therewith, as the committee deems to be of public interest, and which in its opinion will aid the House of Representatives in enacting remedial legislation, or in deciding any contests that may be instituted involving the right to a seat in the House of Representatives . . . .

On June 23, 1944, Speaker Sam Rayburn, acting pursuant to House Resolution 551, 78th Congress, announced the appointment of Messrs. Clinton P. Anderson of, New Mexico (chairman); John J. Sparkman, of Alabama; John W. Murphy, of Pennsylvania; E. C. Gathings, of Arkansas; Clarence J. Brown, of Ohio; August H. Andresen, of Minnesota; and Ralph E. Church, of Illinois, as members of the special committee.

In executing the task committed to it by House Resolution 551, 78th Congress the special committee conducted public hearings intermittently between August 28, 1944, and December 28, 1944, in Washington, D.C., Chicago, Ill., Los Angeles, Calif., San Francisco, Calif., New York, N.Y., and Dallas Texas, receiving testimony from representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers, Union for Democratic Action, Communist Political Association, Constitutional Educational League, Inc., America First Party, Committee for Constitutional Government, American Democratic National Committee, Congress of Industrial Organizations' Political Action Committee and the National Citizens Political Action Committee, Allied Democrats, Friends of Democracy, Official Democratic County Assembly Committee of San Francisco, United Labor Legislative Committee, and the American Institute of Public Opinion (Gallup Poll). In the course of the investigation, the committee's record was augmented by relevant information submitted, voluntarily or at the instance of the committee, by candidates for election to the House of Representatives, private citizens, the national headquarters of the major political parties and by their respective congressional campaign committees. Further facts were obtained by investigations into complaints and charges of wrongful campaign acts and practices brought to the committee's attention and by research into matters within the purview of the committee's inquiry. Upon a record thus compiled, the special committee submitted its report to the House of Representatives on January 2, 1945 (H. Rept. 2093, 78th Cong., 2d sess.), setting forth the findings and recommendations resulting from its investigations. With the submittal of the report, the Select Committee to Investigate Campaign Expenditures, 1944, would up its affairs.

On July 19, 1946, the House of Representatives adopted House Resolutions 645, 79th Congress, authorizing the appointment of another special committee to oversee the 1946 political campaigns of candidates for election to the House of Representatives. Pursuant to House Resolution 645, 79th Congress, with provisions substantially the same as those of House Resolution 551, 78th Congress, the Special Committee to Investigate Campaign Expenditures, 1946, was constituted, possessing powers similar to those of its predecessor, the Special Committee to Investigate Campaign Expenditures, 1944. On August 6, 1946, Speaker Sam Rayburn, acting in compliance with House Resolution 645, 79th Congress, announced the appointment of Messrs. Emmet O'Neal, of Kentucky (chairman); J. Percy Priest, of Tennessee; John E. Fogarty, of Rhode Island; Leo E. Allen, of Illinois; and Carl F. Curtis, of Nebraska, as members of the special committee. Shortly thereafter, Mr. Emmet O'Neal and Mr. Leo E. Allen resigned from the special committee. The Speaker of the House appointed Mr. Oren Harris, of Arkansas, and Mr. Frank Fellows, of Maine, to fill the vacancies thus created, and named Mr. J. Percy Priest to serve as chairman.

In carrying out its duties, the special committee conducted public hearings intermittently between October 14, 1946, and October 28, 1946, in Washington, D. C., receiving testimony from representatives of the National Citizens' Political Action Committee, Congress of Industrial Organizations, Political Action Committee, American Federation of Labor, National Association of Manufacturers, American Action, Inc., Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America, American Federation of Musicians, and United Garment Workers of America. To obtain expeditiously data and information needed in its investigation, the special committee prepared an extensive questionnaire and mailed a copy to each of a large number of organizations which, from available information, the committee believed were probably engaged in political activities. The questionnaire, requiring the filing of sworn answers thereto within fifteen days, sought information as to "the identity of the organization, the names and addresses of its officers, the nature and extent of its political activities, the nature, amounts, and sources of contributions, the amounts, nature, and purposes of any contemplated expenditures in connection with the 1946 elections of Members of the House, and the nature and extent of other means intended to be used in support of or in opposition to the candidacy of any person seeking election to the House, and . . . other information which the Committee deemed material to its investigation." In the course of the investigation, candidates for election to the House and private citizens offered to the committee information for its use or lodged complaints and charges alleging wrongful campaign acts and practices. In response to these complaints and charges or upon its own volition, the special committee sent investigators to various congressional districts to ascertain whether the complaints and charges brought to its notice were substantiated and to collect information upon the basis of which the special committee could act. Investigators of the special committee conducted investigations of primary or general elections in the Seventh Congressional District of Georgia, the Fifth Congressional District of Missouri, the Second Congressional District of Florida, the six Congressional Districts in Philadelphia, Pa., the Fifth Congressional District of Oklahoma, the Fourth Congressional District of Massachusetts, and the Thirteenth and Eighteenth Congressional Districts of New York. In connection with its inquiry, the special committee made use of reports and statements filed by political organizations and by candidates for election to the House of Representatives with the Clerk of the House or with State officials in compliance with law, containing information regarding their respective campaign receipts and expenditures. In many instances, the special committee obtained needed information on campaign receipts and expenditures of particular political organizations or candidates for election to the House by sending telegraphic requests therefor to the organizations or candidates concerned. Upon a record thus compiled, the special committee submitted its report to the House of Representatives on December 31, 1946 (H.Rept. 2739, 79th Cong., 2d Sess.), embodying the findings and recommendations derived from its investigations. With the filing of the Report, the Special Committee to Investigate Campaign Expenditures, 1946, completed its work.

The records of both special committees, amounting in the aggregate to about eleven cubic feet, are subject to the orders of the House of Representatives prescribing that unpublished records of the House shall not be made available to inquirers for examination or other purposes without the express permission of the House of Representatives.
